

"The Come On In campaign is a great asset to the Denver community. Because there is an organization like Denver's Road Home, dedicated to helping connect community groups and organizations, we no longer have to feed people on the street. We have been afforded the opportunity to feed indoors where people can be warm and have a seat."

In Helping to Feed
The Hungry and Homeless
Indoors

Denver is Fortunate to have many caring, charitable individuals and groups who are committed to feeding the hungry and homeless. Shelters and service providers currently serve three hot meals every day of the year. Everybody is welcome.

Individuals and groups that provide food outdoors for the less fortunate in our community are encouraged to move their efforts indoors. Since the Come On In program began in 2007, 13 community groups have participated, enabling people to be fed with dignity and access services they require, such as bathroom facilities.

Why Is It Important to Feed People Inside?

- People should be fed 365 days a year. People must be fed all year round, even in cold or inclement weather. Feeding inside ensures the poor and homeless can access meals three times per day, 365 days a year.
- The poor should be connected with needed services. Food can be a strong connector to services. Once indoors, individuals can be offered information about where to find shelter and other services such as health care, mental health counseling, housing or employment training.
- Outside feeding creates problems for residents of downtown neighborhoods. Neighborhood concerns include garbage, traffic and outdoor urination and defecation. Please be a good neighbor and feed indoors.
- Feeding people inside is more humane and healthier. Individuals can eat with dignity, wash their hands and use a toilet.

Our Mission:

We are a group of service providers, neighborhood associations, faith-based organizations and municipal entities committed to ensuring that every hungry and homeless person has access to food. We are collaborating with our charitable community partners to help bring the message to the hungry –

“Come Inside.”

Denver’s Road Home is Working; Please Join This Initiative

In the past four years, Denver’s Road Home, in partnership with the community, has developed more than 1,500 new units of housing and prevented over 2,000 families from becoming homeless. While not everyone eating on the streets is homeless, we hope you will consider joining other important efforts such as Denver’s Road Home, or working with any one of the many providers participating in the plan, to end the cycle of poverty and life on the streets.
